STEREOSCOPE

Modern tendencies reveal a decided recurrence of the gay and glamorous mood of the "nineties;" especially in fashions do we observe a reflection of that unforgettable period of bicycles and bustles. Accordingly, in the 1935 ALBUM we have endeavored to capture a note of this merry temper with which to color the pictorial memories of our life at Eastern.

RECOGNITION

Among the teachers at Eastern High School who give generously of their time in directing senior activities is Aleath Garrity, instructor of English and director of Senior B plays. Because of her broad knowledge of dramatic technique and her fine discrimination in character selection these plays have been consistently well received. Through these productions she offers the seniors an opportunity to develop their ability in this field and to acquire a greater appreciation for dramatic art.

THE ACADEMIC COURSE

The academic course offered at Eastern High School is designed to prepare the pupils for college entrance. New college requirements for admission were issued during this year which will change the individual curricula of many students now enrolled in school. The subjects are divided into six groups from which a minimum of four sequences must be presented, two of which shall be major sequences. A major sequence consists of at least three units, a minor sequence of at least two units.

Eleven departments comprise this course, each capably directed by an experienced supervisor—English, social science, Latin, French, Spanish, science, mathematics, music, art, home economics, and physical education.

In the United States history classes a new system is being tried whereby an intensive study of present day affairs and problems is made. Along with this the past is studied so as to trace the historical background of current issues and to show the similarity between the problems of the years gone by and today.

Several students from the advanced Latin classes entered translations in the national contest which is being sponsored in honor of the bi-millennium of Horace.

During the last semester there has been such an increased interest in botany and home economics that it has been necessary to form extra classes and employ additional teachers in these departments. Boys as well as girls are interested in the culinary art and as a result of this the membership of the beginning classes is approximately one-half boys.

THE COMMERCIAL COURSE

The commercial course not only teaches the student the theory of business ethics but also gives him practical experience in the world of business. This department is ably directed by Ralph B. Peterman who is assisted by nine well-trained teachers. Instruction is given in three major subjects—bookkeeping, typewriting, and shorthand. These are supplemented by courses in salesmanship, business English, office training, commercial law, commercial geography, and commercial arithmetic.

Formerly bookkeeping was taught in high school only for vocational purposes, but this year a new deal in bookkeeping which is considered of value to everyone whether or not it is used commercially has been introduced at Eastern. It includes work in the keeping of personal and family records, budgeting, taxation, banking, and investments.

In the past few years the popularity of typewriting as a medium of communication has greatly increased. This last semester it has been necessary to enlarge the room space and add six new typewriters.

A two year course in the Gregg system of shorthand is offered to students in their junior and senior years. In the one semester course in salesmanship the retail side of the art is emphasized. Business English, which is required in the senior year, is a course in letter-writing and business correspondence. The students usually elect office practice in their senior year, as it gives the final polish to their entire course and prepares them for entrance into the business world. All bookkeeping accounts and financial records for the school are handled by the commercial department under the supervision of Donald Manz.

THE INDUSTRIAL COURSE

The fundamental principles of trade are taught in the industrial department headed by D. W. Bradford. This department is operated under the Smith-Hughes law which requires that the students spend three hours daily in shop work obtaining practical experience.

Those pupils who elect engineering may obtain any type of drafting which interests them—interior decorating, structural work, patent office drafting, machine and tool designing and architectural drawing.

The Industrial Annex is equipped with all the necessary tools for teaching automotive work. Here the pupils learn the construction of engines and repairing of automobiles.

In the print shop the art of printing and related subjects are studied. Besides printing the school paper, advanced students print material for the Board of Education, the principal's office, and organizations of the school.

As a pastime woodworking is growing more popular, and the school woodshop affords the boy an opportunity to use his talent working out his own ideas. Odd repair jobs about the school are also done by the students.

In recent years aeronautics has captured the imagination of thousands of youths in an astonishing manner. It has been possible to start a course in aeronautics at Eastern High School this year, by the cooperation of the authorities of the Boys' Vocational School who have given storage for an airplane and motors.

Industrial boys trained by Harry R. Wilson do most of the carpentry, shifting of scenery, and controlling of lights for the numerous events occurring in Eastern High Auditorium.

Eastern has one small radio room where those interested may study the construction and operation of transmitting and receiving apparatus.

The class advisers play an important role in promoting Quaker activities by sponsoring all the extra-curricular events of the various classes. The adviser of each Sophomore B class helps to create a friendly attitude among the newcomers through the sophomore mixers. To the advisers are also intrusted the supervision of the duties connected with elections and class meetings. During the final semester all of the senior graduation activities including the senior prom, senior program, banquet and commencement exercises are in charge of the advisers. The classes are greatly indebted to this group who sponsor these various activities throughout the year and appreciate the many hours they spend in planning the clever themes which add so much to these events.

Although seemingly timid and quiet in demeanor the incoming class of January, 1933 harbored desires of accomplishing great things in its sojourn at Eastern. To direct and protect these ambitions for school life the members chose Robert Davidson as their president in the sophomore year. Some of their timidity and self-consciousness left them as they became acquainted with the sophomore A's at their first social event, the Sophomore Mixer of 1933. Remembering the joys of this event, the class as sophomore A's entertained the incoming sophs with an equal degree of welcome and friendliness.

The junior year brought a feeling of sophistication and assurance; they had emerged from their first year at Eastern with flying colors. Being well represented in the field of sport and in scholastic attainment, this class has not fallen short of standards set for them by classes who have gone before. In social events the biggest enterprise was the J-Hop, called El Fandango, which had as the name suggests, a Spanish motif. The grand march of this highly successful social event was led by the president of the class, Gerald Larsen, and the general chairman, Virginia Mackey, with their guests Esther Karkeet and Ellsworth Affeldt.

Four unforgettable semesters, crowded with effort and triumphs, have quickly passed; now carrying on true Quaker traditions of tolerance, fair play, and friendliness they enter their senior A year.

BAND

Eastern's band enjoys a state-wide reputation as a well-drilled playing and marching unit. No organization exemplifies better than this one the vitality and loyalty of all true Easternites for their school. In the fall as the band marches down the football field forming its welcoming letters to visiting teams, each student looking on is proud of his band and the alma mater for which it stands. Besides its contributions to school activities, it responds generously to assist in civic celebrations, such as the occasion last fall of the Detroit Tigers' visit to Lansing.

During the spring semester a band council was organized under Robert Clapham as captain and Mr. McIntire, adviser, to fix the policies of the group and settle impartially any matters of dispute which might arise.

ORCHESTRA

Sweeping strains of melodious music are wafted along the corridors daily during the eighth hour, proving that about fifty young musicians are so eager to pursue their art that they will remain after regular school hours to do it. Through their constant practice, the Orchestra has been able to build a good repertoire of classical and semi-classical numbers from which they make their programs for public appearances. All commencement programs as well as Senior B plays are marked by performances of the entire orchestra.

GIRLS' BAND

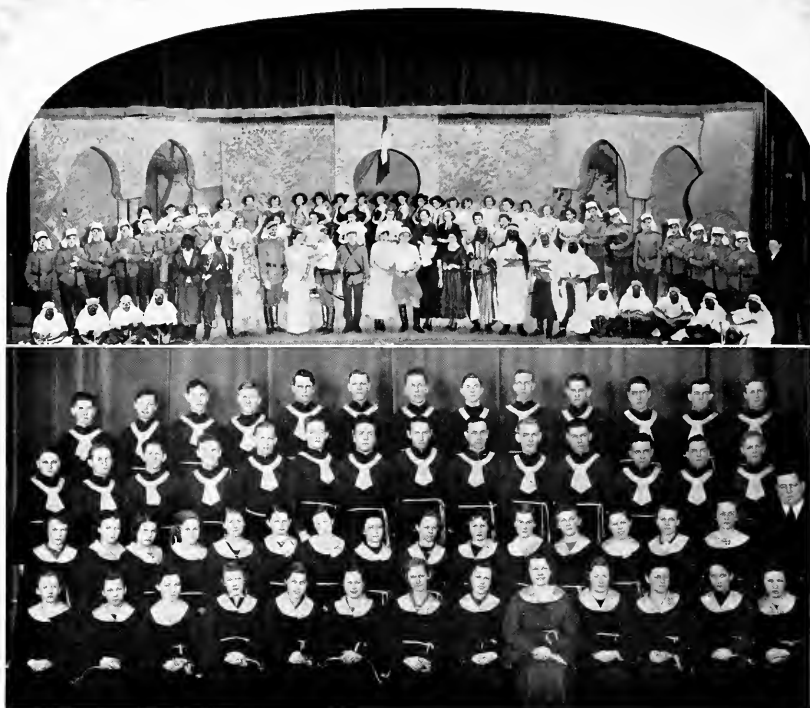

It is difficult to believe that in a year's time an individual is transformed from a tremulous, wailing, helpless infant to a growing, self-reliant child. Such has been the history of Eastern's Girls' Band which has established itself during the year 1934-35 as an extremely popular part of the music department. All efforts have been united toward earning money for uniforms and the hope has been expressed that these may be secured in 1936. Performances were given at "Once There Was a Princess," the spring concert, Michigan State College, the Masonic Temple and Prudden Auditorium. Their popularity was attributable largely to the skill with which they gave their favorite numbers, "Straussiana" arranged by Seredy, "A. A. Harding March" by Mader and Becraw, and "18th Regiment March" by Penella.

MADRIGAL CHOIR

The main endeavors of the Madrigal Choir centered around the production of the fall Opera and the Spring Festival. With the exception of Vincent Iansiti's role, all the leading parts of the "Desert Song" were filled by members of the choir. In carrying out their purpose of furthering a cappella singing in Lansing, the choir delighted numerous civic and religious audiences with their unaccompanied selections. Among the numbers learned this year were, "Beside Thy Cradle" by Bach, "Hosanna" by Christiansen, "Only Begotten Son" by Gretcheninoff, "Sunbeam Out of Heaven" by Christiansen, and "Lullaby On Christmas Eve" by Christiansen.

OPERA

This year's opera, "The Desert Song," by Sigmund Romberg, was acclaimed unanimously the most successful opera in the history of Eastern High School.

The story depicts the efforts of General Birabeau of the French Foreign Legion to capture the daring and elusive "Red Shadow," leader of a savage band of Arabians, not knowing he was pursuing his own son, Pierre. Those taking part in the presentation were Robert Andrews as Pierre, the hero; Doris Logan as Margot Bonvalet, the heroine; Charles Halpin, General Birabeau; Norton Hildreth, Captain Paul Fontaine; Daniel Rooker, Benjamin Kidd; Marie Hannula, Susan; Donald Sibert, Lieutenant Le Vergne; Richard Parisian, Sergeant Du Bassac; Doris Richmond, Edith; Harold McAttee, Hassi; Walter Scutt, Sid El Kar; George Armstrong, Mindar; Bette Ayres, Azuri; Mary Margeson, Clementina; Francis Moore, Neri; Vincent Iansiti, Hadji; Earle Trudgen, Ali Ben Ali. The directors were T. K. Clark, dramatics coach and scenery designer; Winifred Kalcithaler, director of dances; R. B. Peterman, business manager; W. R. McIntire, music and general director.

ACTIVITIES ♦

FORENSICS

This year a question of national concern was selected as the subject to be discussed by members of the Five-A League debate: "Resolved, That the federal government should adopt the policy of equalizing educational opportunities throughout the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for elementary and secondary education." Eastern's foremost public speakers employed their eloquence in forensic contests with Ithaca High, Hastings, Kalamazoo Central and Lansing Central. Although defeated by Kalamazoo Central and Lansing Central, they were victorious by a score of 4 to 0 over the teams of Ithaca High and Hastings. Considering that our opponents confronted an entirely new and inexperienced team this year, special recognition ought to be accorded the debaters, Glen Willoughby, Carman Brown, and James Hubbard.

The annual sub-district speech tournament was held at Kalamazoo on April 11, at which time the members of this group contested for recognition in the fields of oratory, declamation and extempore speaking. The representatives of Eastern's speech department rivaled those from Battle Creek, Hastings, Kalamazoo and Lansing Central.

"Important Causes of War," delivered in extemporaneous style by Carman Brown, won second place and according to the judges showed good organization and adaptability. Claire Hamilton, a Sophomore A who did creditable work on her declamation: "The Character of Washington," by Everett, was awarded third place. Charles Halpin also earned the same position by his effective delivery of the oration "What Price Peace." He deserves especial credit for his fine conception of this speech, since it was the first time he had ever engaged in a contest of this nature.

HONOR SOCIETY

Lansing Eastern is proud of its membership in the National Honor Society, an organization recognizing high scholarship. The qualities necessary for eligibility to membership are character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Election to this society is the highest scholastic attainment a student may obtain, and members of the junior A and senior classes are eligible. The society is financed by membership dues, which are payable each semester.

For the past three years a College Day has been observed at which time representatives of about fifteen colleges from this and surrounding states were interviewed by students so that they could obtain desirable information about the college they planned to attend.

The Honor Society is sponsored by Miss Faye Baumgardner and Mr. Dwight H. Rich.

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is organized in order that the students may have certain powers of controlling their own interests.

This year the achievements of the council were to adopt a new constitution after it was voted on by the student body, to establish a higher respect for the student duty guides, to promote honesty, higher social standards, and better hall conduct, to promote a more friendly attitude at the games, to explain more fully scholarships available to the students, to investigate a school court, and to promote better health. A special feature which made the Friendly Week program more interesting was a "Halloo Day." On this day a student could speak to any other student with whom he wished to make an acquaintance without the formality of introduction and not feel that he had overstepped the bounds of etiquette.

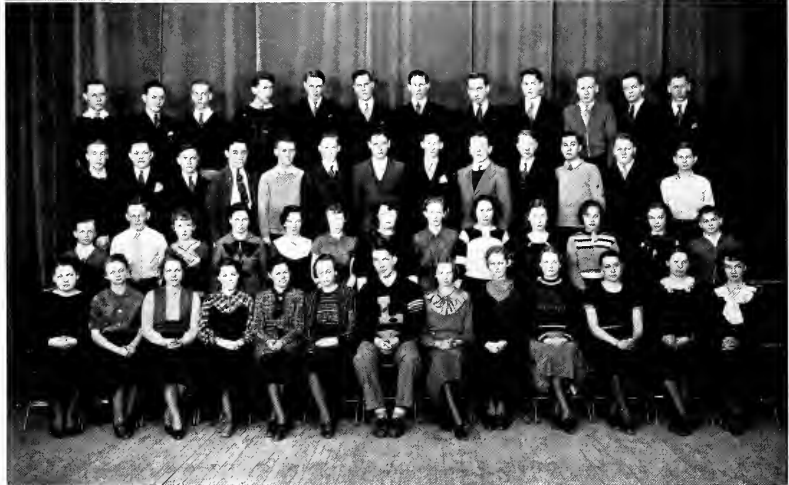

Jack Grost led the council through a truly eventful first semester. Don Maliskey, an outstanding athlete at Eastern, was the president for the second semester. Selection to this coveted position of Student Council president is by popular vote, following a carefully planned campaign program in assembly.

THE EASTERNER STAFF

The Easterner is a bi-weekly newspaper, published by the combined journalism classes. The editors-in-chief were elected by members of the class and the assisting staff was appointed by the instructor, Miss Vivian Janney. During this year the editors-in-chief have been Margaret Johnson, Carman Brown, Jack French, and Gerald Murphy.

The first semester there were two classes which alternated for publications, but in February one class divided into two complete staffs. Credits were recorded in chart form, the credits being inches of type contributed to the Easterner and copy typed. First semester awards went to Margaret Harris with eighty-eight inches published, and Vernon Hazelton ran a close second with eighty inches. Edward Macal was third with seventy inches. Olga Stadnyk was the most outstanding typist; seventy-eight pieces of copy were accredited to her, and Roberta Webster was second, having seventy copies.

The Easterner is a member of the National Scholastic Press Association and since 1931 has been given first class honor rating in the yearly Scholastic Press Critical awards.

Miss Janney, who came to Eastern from Dansville High School, is to be commended for her splendid handling of this difficult task. E. L. Courtney was printing adviser and R. B. Peterman, business manager.

THE LANTERN STAFF

The 1935 Lantern Staff has spent a busy and long-to-be-remembered year preparing this Album—the seventh book to be published since the opening of Eastern High School. Eight students of recognized talent, scholarship, and dependability were chosen for the various literary posts by the adviser, Irma H. Smith, each one being made responsible for a section he was judged able to do.

Mary Kroll, editor-in-chief, supervised the general organization of the book. Ardyce McEnderfer and Kingsley Montgomery had all the work pertaining to the classes; Elizabeth Wright was in charge of the teachers' section; the sports section was Gale Price's special task; Lillian Zimmer, assistant editor, organized club material, and other organizations were done by Minerva Hays. Edwin Butler supervised the feature section, supplementing the pictures he had taken with those contributed by the Camera Club and the student body. Martha Stachel acted as head typist and Eileen Hilliard as her assistant.

Under the direction of Miss Cleo Harrison the art work was done by Richard Neubert and Ray Surine.

The business staff, working with Mr. Ralph Peterman, consisted of five members. Doris Huntington was business manager; James Hubbard, advertising manager; with Stanley Thomas, Gregory Halpin, and Donald Sibert aiding in this field.

QUILL AND SCROLL

The Quaker Chapter of Quill and Scroll, international honor society for high school journalists, has resumed its place among school activities, after a lapse of one semester.

The requirements for membership in this organization are (1) members must be at least juniors, (2) must be in the upper third of their class scholastically, (3) must have done superior work in journalistic or creative endeavor, (4) must be recommended by the supervisor, (5) must be approved by the national secretary-treasurer. The aim of the society is to forward journalistic and creative writing in Eastern. After having once joined the Quill and Scroll, one is a life member, but active members are only those who are in high school. The chapter sent entries to the national contest held March 15, and with the aid of its adviser, Miss Nellie Grohe, held local contests for its members.

GIRLS' LEAGUE

Every girl at Eastern High School is a member of the Girls' League, an organization through which the girls become better acquainted with each other and have opportunities to hear and discuss topics of interest vital to them. Each unit is composed of one class and is supervised by a member of the faculty. The sophomore B unit, guided by Miss Baumgardner, studied vocations; the sophomore A's, under Miss Manning, discussed social standards; the junior B's, supervised by Miss Winters, enjoyed the study of recreations; the junior A's chose social service and welfare work with Miss Gross' direction; the senior B's, with Miss Toogood, made a study of hygiene and personal problems; the senior A's discussed problems of the girls and school life.

The Girls' League sponsored a Dad and Daughter Banquet with each unit contributing to the program.

CLUBS

AUDITORIUM CLUB

The Auditorium Club had as its most important function of the year the ushering at all evening performances presented in our auditorium. Some of these included "The Desert Song" and the two Senior B plays, "The Lion and the Mouse" and "Once There Was a Princess." The girls were especially complimented for their skill in capably placing the enormous crowds attending the presentations of the Globe Theatre Players. At all of our home football games the boys directed the people to the correct sections of the stadium.

Regular club meetings under the guidance of Nelson VanLiere were devoted to discussions and talks on subjects such as fixtures and lights, makeup, production of plays and operas, and methods of ushering used in theatres both in the United States and abroad.

GIRLS' DISCUSSION

What the well-dressed girl will wear, how she will entertain the boy friend who calls, and other problems pertinent to high school girls were queries for many round-table talks of the Girls' Discussion Club guided by Miss Baumgardner, dean of girls.

The beautiful Mothers' Day observance in assembly, May 9, was the climax of their year's work and was a service truly appreciated by the student body.

Fourth Row: Holmes, Portnoff, Kamins, Burke, Meacham, Greenhoe, Porter, Meuendorf

Second Row: Wertz, Shoulars, Byelich, Mead, Heather, Dudley, Caldwell, Hartley, Bauerle

First Row: Gallagher, Murphy, Gibb, Santos, Skidmore, Miller, Smith, Boase, Baker, Aldrich

GIRLS' CAMERA CLUB

Although newly organized, the Girls' Camera Club carried out a very ambitious program this year. As a basis for all their work the topic of composition was first discussed. This led to sub-topics of balance, unity, center of interest, cutting, mounting, types of films and papers, and paper negatives. Monthly assignments were given by the sponsor, Miss Katherine Smith, one of them being the silhouettes in the school life section of the Lantern. Three demonstrations of film developing and contact printing, and one field trip comprised the rest of their work.

Second Row: Burdick, Roberts, McKale, Randall, Sierkowski

First Row: Yeulette, Holt, Hartley, Gallagher, Gunn

BOYS' DISCUSSION

The Boys' Discussion Club under the sponsorship of Mr. Rich and Mr. Leach centered its programs around matters of outside interest rather than school concern.

Law-suits in general, curtailment of crime, capital punishment, President Roosevelt's reconstruction act, the Kerns Hotel disaster, and social problems relating to the city of Lansing and adjacent territory were among the subjects touched upon by this group.

Two exceedingly enjoyable trips were taken—one to the Lawrence Baking Company and the other to Kalamazoo and Battle Creek. The State Hospital and Upjohn Laboratories were visited at Kalamazoo and the Kellogg Food Corporation was inspected at Battle Creek.

This club has been functioning only two years, but it has progressed so rapidly during this short period that the Boys' Discussion Club is now one of the most active organizations in Eastern High.

Second Row: Bowden, Ewers, McFadden, Bannan, L. Benson, Angell

HI-Y

Group meetings of the Hi-Y Club were held with the advisers, Jake Burnham and William Anderson, on alternate Wednesdays, many of these being informal discussion hours with all the members participating.

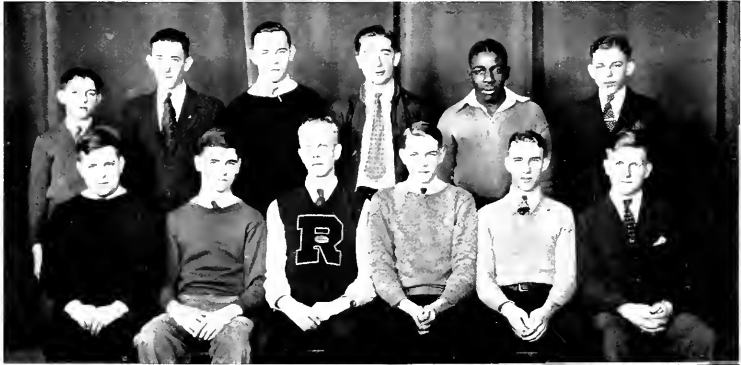

The most important activity of the club during the past year was the promotion of its initial aims—the 4 "C's"—clean living, clean speech, clean scholarship, and clean athletics. To further these ambitions of the members, Coach Bachman of Michigan State College and Reverend Frye gave two very inspiring addresses during respective club meetings.

The Hi-Y of Eastern acted as host of the Older Boys' Conference held in Lansing, and the members were instrumental in finding lodgings for out-of-town delegates.

The selling of candy at all home football games was successfully carried through as a money-making project because of the enthusiasm and activity of each member of the club.

Second Row: Mastrovito, Wortman, Leitz, Cheney, Hunt, Weaver

First Row: Mr. Anderson, Sherman, Padgett, Maliskey, Murphy, Mr. Burnham

RADIO CLUB

The proper method of building a radio set was first discussed by the members of the Radio Club and then Mr. Harry Wilson, the club sponsor, supervised the work of the boys in their attempt to construct a receiving set. Each member after thoroughly examining our own licensed radio, operating under the name W8KN, dissembled it and then reconstructed it. The only requirement for membership is an interest in radio and willingness to work.

Any visitor who desires it is welcome to inspect and get information about this station from the student in charge.

Second Row: Smith, Stelma, Stowell, Dennison, Rohl
First Row: Park, Bell, Sauders, Ingman, Halpin, Mr. Wilson

STAMP COLLECTORS

The Stamp Collectors, as the name implies, are interested in gathering rare and historical stamps. Because of the interest and activity of each member, the club now has in its possession many valuable stamps, and it displayed an effective and profitable exhibit in the library during Book Week of the first semester. A map of the world was included in the display, showing the stamps issued by the various countries. This exhibit was also exhibited in the Public Library and was the cause of much interested comment.

Vern Wolfe, Bob Simpson, and Bob Paulson addressed the club on "Stamps" and "Stamp Collecting." Two members, Vern Wolfe and Bob Simpson, were selected to attend the Grand Rapids Convention in November.

Second Row: Bunker, Alger, Simpson, Bell, Wolfe, Miss Wheeler

QUAKER CAMERA CLUB

Monthly assignments, cash awards, and money fines tell part of the story of the Camera Club's activities this year. Each boy was required to have his own equipment for making and enlarging prints, and no small amount of interest was taken in making effective although inexpensive projecting machines. Mr. Clark sanctioned a system of cash awards and fines to stimulate promptness in keeping up assignments and to create a friendly rivalry.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club, organized too late last year to be officially recognized in the 1934 Lantern, began its work in September with Miss Gladys Love as sponsor, in the absence of Miss Irene Patterson, who was attending the University of Minnesota. Two representatives of the club attended a meeting of affiliated high school Home Economics Clubs in East Lansing on October 19, and brought back inspiration to their own club activities.

By far the greatest service which S. P. Q. R. and its sponsor, Miss Cole, render the school is the encouragement of high scholarship by presenting the Eta Sigma Phi award to the four year Latin graduate with "magna cum laude" standing. The Bimillennium Vergilianum medal goes to those who complete with honors three years of Latin with Virgil as the third.

Two programs presented before the Latin Club this year were especially well received by the members. On October 24, Miss Lois Manning of the Science Department and Miss Bertha Pollitt of the English Department spoke of the general advantages Latin gives to any student. A play, "Cordelia," presented on November 21, provided a very entertaining and instructive hour.

This club sponsors two parties every year for the "A" students of Latin. Ruth Jessel and her committees provided novel fortunes and fun at the party October 30 and Ruth Bowers was chairman for the second.

SCIENCE CLUB

For four years the Science Club has been one of the most active organizations in Eastern. The members are encouraged to try new experiments and a majority of the meetings feature lectures on scientific inventions by the club adviser, Mr. Leach, and scientists from Michigan State College. Professor Chapman lectured on the government power and the conservation projects in the Tennessee valley. Mr. Leach addressed the boys on "The Fundamental Principles of Radio" and also on "High Voltage Phenomena."

A moving picture entitled "Wizardry of Wireless" was presented before the club during one meeting. The members were fortunate in being granted the privilege of traveling to Dearborn, Michigan, to visit Greenfield Village and were gratified by the courtesy shown them on their trip.

The auditorium program presented by the Science Club on October 25, 1935, was enjoyed by the students who always appreciate the educational value of the programs this group presents.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club, which met every Wednesday of the even week, was very active under its new sponsor, Miss Effie Erickson. The members heard discussions on Spanish art, music, literature, books, and on the cultural background of the nation. Reports were given on these subjects by various students. Spanish songs were learned and sung and refreshments were served in the Spanish style. Whenever possible during the meeting, the members spoke this language and thus added interest to the period. A pleasant social event in May was a picnic at Grand Ledge on the famous ledges. The Spanish Club, collaborating with the French and Latin Clubs presented the auditorium program of April 26.

PAINT SPLASHERS

The Paint Splashers Club won two first prizes of twenty-five dollars each in the High School Art Exhibit at the State Fair. From one prize, the club bought a picture for the art room, "Red Deer" by Marc. The members presented a puppet show "Little Red Riding Hood" before the Teachers' Institute on October 19 and also before the Parent Teachers' Association on October 24. To amuse the children in the Oak Park orphanage, the members fashioned animals from sponge and gave these as gifts at Christmas. They sponsored the Paint Splashers' Huddle after the Battle Creek and Eastern football game. The club was responsible for all the advertising including posters for the sale of American Legion poppies, W. C. T. U., and the school circus. They also made the posters for the J-Hop and the Union Party. Miss Cleo Harrison, sponsor, arranged a trip to the Detroit Institute of Art on April 6, mainly to see the Michigan Art Exhibit; they also visited radio station WJR.

LIBRARY CLUB

The Library Club, during the past year, was fortunate in being able to hear many varied and interesting addresses on the newer books. A talk on "hobbies" was given by Miss Beulah Isles of the City Library which the members found very educational. Miss Effie Erickson, a Spanish teacher new to Eastern High this year, gave a very entertaining address on her year at the Spanish University, El Centro de Estudios Historicos.

To test the girls' knowledge of the contents of various books, a contest was held in which skits were presented and the members guessed the source of the portions portrayed. The sponsor, Miss Ann Wheeler, addressed the club on her trip through Greenfield Village. At one meeting each member told an original story; at another, posters were made for Book Week. The Library Staff was very grateful for the aid this club gave during the Book Week Exhibit.

GERMAN

Some of the students who would undoubtedly elect German were it offered in the regular curriculum, find that the German Club opens a broad field to them in the study of its language, customs, and people. A resume of the topics included for their reports and discussions shows how wide were their interests—Hitler, Nazi rule, military training, Saar election were only a few of the subjects touched upon. Mr. Marklewitz spoke frequently in German and taught them a variety of songs, phrases, and salutations by which they enlivened the periods.

PRINTING CLUB

Few groups can boast of combining their chosen work and their hobby so agreeably as do the boys of the advanced work in printing, who are organized as the Printing Club with E. L. Courtney as sponsor. During the fall months they rendered a school service of which many were not even aware—the editing and publishing of football programs for all home games.

Programs of all school events such as the opera, Senior B and faculty plays are printed by them, and they too deserve the credit for the efficient manner in which the school paper, "Easterner," is regularly printed. At least two semesters of printing are a requisite to joining this club.

An excursion to Kalamazoo on November 2 to visit the Vegetable Parchment Company proved to be both interesting and educational. Visits to local printing companies included the Hallenbeck Printing Company, The Acme Printing Company, and the Quality Print Shop.

CHEMISTRY

In the five years of its organization the Chemistry Club has been noted for its annual unique assembly program at which time demonstrations by students and an occasional outside speaker are presented. March 21, Professor Hunt of Michigan State College talked on heredity before the assembled student body.

Many branches of activity are made possible to the students through the club period that are impossible for the regular chemistry classes. Field trips, a visit to the Lansing Sugar Beet Factory, reports, experiments, and motion pictures were all included in this year's program.

STAGE CRAFT

Stage Craft is a new club, sponsored by Mr. Wilson, whose purpose is to provide trained help for all auditorium productions. The club is divided into four crews, one crew being on duty every fourth week. Each member has specific duties assigned to him in his week on duty. This club assisted in taking Lantern pictures, helped at the Senior B plays, the style show, the Arts and Craft Guild's exhibit, symphony concerts, sound and silent pictures, assemblies, and lectures.

QUAKER BUSINESS

An eavesdropper who overheard all the meetings of the Quaker Business Club would have a very good idea of what an efficient office worker should be. The program may be a spelling contest or a speech given by someone from the business world or even a visit to station WJIM. The advice given by Robert K. Orr, president of the Wolverine Insurance Company, April 17, on how to be a good secretary was thoroughly appreciated by everyone.

A delightful gift from the Business Club and Mr. Peterman was the Christmas tree in study 210, which added much to the holiday spirit.

FRENCH

France and its people in a glamorous setting of history and tradition offered so many subjects of interest to the French Club that the year seemed scarcely long enough to include them all. The programs as planned by the committee and adviser, William Sage, were presented in a variety of ways, the most popular being reports, discussions, and guest talks.

Miss Louise Sprau told in an interesting way, at one meeting, of her year at the University of Grenoble and the French mode of living. Two pictures, "Joan of Arc" and "St. Genevieve" presented to the club by Kenneth Bissonette '33, were framed and hung in room 3-7.

FUR AND FEATHER

Few, indeed, were the clubs with a more diversified program than that of Mr. Feeman's Fur and Feather. And it was not surprising that the membership so noticeably increased, because of the interesting nature of their projects. They consisted of an overnight outing to the Octagon Cabin, hikes into the country, an outing to Gibbs' Farm, a trip to Steve's Gun Shop, selling candy at football games, and a school fair exhibit. During the course of the semester the club had five educational motion pictures, and a speaker, Mr. Chiles Collins, on "World Tours" and "Natural Sciences," besides special reports by club members. During National Book Week they were responsible for a splendid library exhibit, which was obtained from the Conservation Department.

BOXING

Are you timid, retiring, and afraid of your own shadow if it surprises you unarmed? Then why not join Mr. Graff's artists of the fistic combat and be the hero of your own dreams? With the shouts of friend and foe ringing in their ears, the boxers brought a very profitable club year to a close in a tournament which decided the supremacy, and the winner was hailed as the new boxing "champ." Self-defense, agility, mental and physical alertness are points stressed in the boys' training.

TUMBLING

The aim and qualifications of the Tumbling Club limit membership only to those who have perfect control over their muscles, and confidence in themselves as well as those performing with them. Mr. R. A. Winston, the sponsor, was very much pleased with his group because of their interest and willingness to perform difficult exercises. Many of these were first demonstrated by the coach himself and then the members duplicated his feats. Thrilling exhibitions of tumbling were displayed before a large audience at the Masonic Temple, also at the Guild Hall, the Bingham Parent-Teacher Association, and the Eastern Parent-Teacher Association. All were enjoyed by the spectators.

HISTORY

One of the finest assembly programs this year was the play, "The First Thanksgiving Day" prepared by Miss Knevels and the club members, with the assistance of her United States history classes. The costumes and staging of this reproduction of the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving dinner were deserving of high praise.

Opportunity to hear many interesting talks on historic, political, and social subjects was given during club hours. Among these were customs of France, Spanish politics, the Riviera, and Stone Henge. Mrs. Elijah Poxson was one of the speakers, taking as her subject "The Rise of Man."

GIRL RESERVES

To "face life squarely" is the command of the Girl Reserves Club and clearly illustrates the purpose underlying every activity participated in by the members. Congeniality reigns supreme and enables the girls to accomplish their objectives of each semester: to promote friendship not only in the club but also in school, to sponsor service activities by preparing Christmas baskets, and to develop the girls not only physically but morally. Discussions are a prominent feature of the meetings and in order to touch upon a subject interesting to each individual, many topics including books, travel, art, music, drama, and character are discussed.

For the first time, the club was divided into many committees and this created a greater interest among the members as well as placed a lesser share of the responsibility on the sponsor, Gracia Sexton.

TRAVEL

Each year the Travel Club enrolls a group of students who enjoy hearing and studying about points of interest in the United States and foreign lands. Their purpose is to understand more fully the methods of travel and encourage the desire for it. Miss Lois Manning who is herself a frequent visitor of distant places sponsors the activities and helps the members obtain a world outlook.

Several travel talks were given this year by guests at the meetings. William Sage in his characteristically vivid manner took the club with him on a trip in the Adirondacks, Miss Cleo Harrison told of New Orleans, Mr. Dwight Rich spoke on New York, and Miss Beulah Isles of her European trip.

At one club meeting Margaret Johnson and Bud Amell told what a person should see on a trip through the western part of our country.

DANCING CLUB

Originality marks the work of the Dancing Club, for it is an interesting fact that all the dances used by the girls in their various performances were written by them in the club and later taught to them by their instructor, Miss Kalchthaler. Cooperating with the Tumbling Club they put on an assembly program; they took charge of all dances for the school circus and presented a program before the Girls' League.

VARSITY

All boys of Eastern athletic teams, as soon as they have received letter awards in any sport, are eligible for the Varsity Club. If they survive the initiation ceremonies, they derive much satisfaction from association with their fellow heroes of field and court. Inspirational talks were given during club hour this year by Coaches Bachman, Young, and VanAlstyne of Michigan State College, and the main social event was a hearty potluck supper with their mentor, Don Wheeler.

DRAMA

So popular was the Drama Club that two sections of it were formed the first semester, the one meeting odd weeks with Miss Bertha Pollitt and the even week group with Miss Margaret Winters. Several members of the former group made their dramatic debut with the presentation of "Neighbors" by Zane Gale before an assembly audience.

The regular meetings were varied by pantomimes, discussions, radio programs, and the reading of one act plays.

On March 15 with the sudden death of Gregory Halpin the club was deprived of one of its most active and interested members.

GOLF CLUB

One club which succeeded in putting theory into practice was the Golf Club, under the sponsorship of Alan Bovard. The meetings during the first half of the year were spent in discussions of the proper methods to be used when playing golf; during the second semester, the members were given a series of lessons in golf and thus put into practice all the suggestions given them.

At first their meetings were weekly but in order that their plans might be fully carried out, the club met twice a week, on Monday and Friday, during the second semester. Members were interested in the national golf champions and in every other prominent figure in this field of sport; therefore, as a group project, they made a scrapbook of many of the champions among whom Walter Hagen and Bobby Jones were featured.

TENNIS

The newest club to breathe the breath of life and seek a charter on the club list is composed of tennis fans who asked a new teacher, Miss Janney, to be their instructor. The girls hope to improve their game to the end that they will continue to play tennis after the club no longer meets. Before June they hope to develop a friendly rivalry and stage a tournament by which they may discover the champion tennis player in the group.

GIRLS' LIFE SAVING

Splash! and the girls of the Life Saving Club were off to beat the records of previous years under a new director, Miss Kalchthaler. The Red Cross tests are rigid and much practice is required to perfect the various phases of the required work. Excellent swimming is not the final goal, but ways of rescuing a drowning person and methods of artificial respiration are also mastered before they receive their emblems.

SPORTS

VARSITY FOOTBALL

The cheers of a capacity crowd rang out over Pattengill stadium as the massed students and supporters of Eastern roared their approval of the Blue and Gold warriors trotting out into the glare of the floodlights, alert and eager to test their strength in this first game of the football season, September 21.

With an undefeated record for the past two seasons, the Quakers were prime favorites for the 1934 grid season. The team promised to be as strong as the ones of previous championship years.

The crowd roared equal approval as a badly beaten Ithaca team, but one which still retained its initial fighting spirit, was on the light end of a 55-0 score at the end of the game. Coach Graff's first team which piled up 29 points yielded in the second quarter to the reserves who scored within five plays. Spectacular long runs, led by Lamb's eighty-yard gallop, constituted most of the points. The final scoring was completed in the third quarter by the varsity, the reserves being held scoreless in the final period.

Led by Lyle Sherman and Chet Smith, the Quaker eleven turned back their first class A competitor, River Rouge, September 28. The fighting Detroit team, which held down the home team's running attack and twice turned back prospective scores from their three-yard marker, were caught unawares by the flashy passing game of "Rocky" Sherman, Kolberg and Chet Smith that resulted in a score midway in the second period. To start the second half, the fans were brought to their feet by Guenther, Rouge's quarterback, who ran the kickoff back 55 yards before he was stopped by Delp, reserve backfield man. Lyle Sherman's field goal and spectacular eighty yard run completed the 15-0 victory. Bengé and Maliskey, Blue and Gold linemen, turned in fine performances.

The Easternites hurdled the third obstacle in their quest for a third consecutive undefeated football season, October 5, by shading Mt. Clemens, 13-6, in a bitterly fought battle. Although the Blue and Golds appeared off-form, they scored in the second quarter with the aid of a pass from quarterback Sherman to Weaver, Quaker right tackle. The Mt. Clemens boys then countered with an aerial barrage of their own which resulted in the first score of the season to be chalked up against Eastern. The visiting team filled in the remaining points by a 36-yard pass, allowing Kolberg to score from the 7-yard line after which Sherman converted the extra point. Bolter, Maliskey, and Kolberg were the bright lights of the Easternites' line.

A crowd of some 4,000 people, gathered at Withington Stadium in Jackson, October 2, saw Lansing Eastern add another link to its three year old chain of football victories by defeating Jackson High, 9-0, in a Five-A league game. Sherman, Eastern's "man with the educated toe," started the scoring in the first period by booting a 14-yard field goal. The final score came in the fourth quarter when the Vikings were unable to resist the bid of the "human dynamo," Chet Smith, for a touchdown. The plucky opposing team furnished some exciting moments, playing almost constantly in Quaker territory in the second and third periods and doing considerable damage to the visiting team's line.

The long expected battle with the Bearcats of Battle Creek, October 19, was turned into a complete rout by the Quakers' outplaying their ancient rivals all the way to break a tie of two seasons standing. One of the highlights of the game occurred in the first period when, after recovering a Bearcat's fumble, Delp raced 27 yards on the first play, enabling Sherman to score a few moments later. Chet Smith and Kolberg accounted for one marker each with Lyle Sherman successfully converting the point after each goal plunge to leave the final score 20-0. The sterling performance of Eastern's entire line accounted for many gains.

Advancing to within two games of another undefeated season, the Quaker eleven snowed under the Ann Arbor Purple, 26-0, November 2, using that same brilliant running attack that accounted for the victory over Battle Creek. When Kurtz and Warner, flashy Purple backs, failed to dent the solid wall of the Easternites' line, "Rocky" Sherman, Chet Smith, and Allen ran across four scores aided by the capable interference of Bengé and Bolter.

In the opening period of their play with Kalamazoo, November 10, the Blue and Gold team was whipped into action by the Maroon player Layton's scoring on an 80-yard run after blocking a Quaker punt. The aroused Easternites came back in the second quarter and scored on a sequence of off-tackle smashes and end sweeps. Playing behind an improved line, the co-captains, Smith and Sherman, completed the final 14-6 score. "Bud" Lamb was definitely removed from the Central tilt by a recurrence of a knee injury.

With the stage set for the annual intra-city brush with Central, Coach Graff kept the team hustling. This game involving Eastern's chances for city and Five-A league championship was considered by Central as a chance to atone for a rather unlucky season and while the Quakers were considered as probable victors, there was a general reluctance to forecast the score.

The Easternites confirmed previous forecasts by downing the Big Reds 13-0, November 6, to tie for the state and keep the Five-A and city championship titles. The plucky Central warriors held their ancient foes scoreless in the first half, but their stubborn defense could not stand up against the heavier and faster team. An 86-yard run by Chet Smith furnished the most exciting play of the game and gave Eastern her first touchdown, Lyle Sherman converting the point. Line smashes and a pass again placed Smith in a position to score near the close of the final period. Frequent exchanges of punts and barrages of passes were interspersed throughout the game. Jake Speelman, the Big Red quarterback, furnished many anxious moments for Eastern, and Bengé, Maliskey, Kolberg, and Polihonki distinguished themselves in this final scheduled game.

Lyle "Rocky" Sherman, star quarterback of Eastern's championship team, was honored by being selected to fill the quarterback's berth on the All-State teams of both the Free Press and Richard E. Remington. Although Sherman was the only one to receive first team mention, several other boys, Kolberg, Chet Smith, Bengé, and Weaver, received mention on second and third teams.

RESERVE FOOTBALL

In addition to developing much promising material for the varsity squad, Coach Feeman's reserve team enjoyed the most successful season in two years.

Although the Easternites had an experienced team with which to meet the green Mason eleven, the substituting of boys to give them experience proved disastrous and the county seaters came out on the heavy end of a 13-6 score. Our single touchdown came as the result of a beautiful pass from Raff to Kirchen.

A much improved Quaker team upset the Vocationals, October 12, 12-6. In addition to being the first reserve game won in two years, this game was the first victory over the Vocs in the history of the school. The opponents' score was made on the fourth reserve team.

The Central Little Reds were the reserves' next victims to the tune of 12-0. Shraft's punting was exceptional while Shippey played a stellar game at guard.

The tie with the School for the Blind, 12-12, was a complete satisfaction to all concerned, as they saw the heroic courage and aggressiveness which the "Blind School" eleven showed. This courage coupled with a heavy line accounted for much yardage.

The second victory over the Little Reds came November 10. The reserves shaded the Indians 19-0, with the passing attack of Raff and Chapman as the highlight of the final game.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

At the beginning of the 1934-35 basketball season, the highly touted Quaker state championship team, its ranks thinned by the loss of Jens Kowalski, giant center, and Russell "Red" Roe, flashy guard, was faced by a fourteen game schedule, the hardest ever attempted in the history of the school. The three veteran letter-men, Kolberg, Lamb, and "Rocky" Sherman, formed the base for the new team.

The smoothly functioning Quaker machine opened its formidable schedule, December 4. A strong array of alumni talent, regimented by "Red" Roe, was trounced 25-6. After several days of polishing off the rough spots that bobbed up in the first game, the Quaker team started its Five-A league campaign by journeying to Jackson, December 7. Through the failure of the Eastern defense to click, the strong Viking quintet emerged victorious, 18-11. The Flint Northern team, which invaded the Easternites' gym, December 14, was turned back, 34-20, leaving the first major scalp of the season hanging at the victor's belt. The Quaker passing was much smoother than in the previous game. The next competitor was the Kalamazoo team, December 20. An aggressive Quaker five smothered the visitors, 18-17. Eastern's first Five-A league triumph of the season came January 8, after a wild, fiercely fought game with Battle Creek. Kolberg's steady eye coupled with the Quaker ability to play "keep away" during the last minute of play spelled victory for the eagers. The long awaited game with Central did not measure up to previous expectations, the Blue and Gold standard being lowered by a 26-13 defeat, January 15. Exhibiting a clever blocking offense, Coach Graff's eagers downed Ann Arbor 21-11. The Purple and White took the defeat on their own floor, January 18. On January 25 the Quakers fell before Port Huron, 27-17, on the first game of an overnight trip. Eastern gained an even break on the week-end trip by swamping Bay City in their gym.

Three new faces appeared in the starting lineup as the result of mid-year graduation. On February 1, Eastern's revamped team moved into second place in the Five-A league by nosing out an aggressive Battle Creek aggregation, 19-18. The new players all turned in creditable performances. The fighting Easternites continued their offensive drive by disposing of a stubbornly fighting Ypsilanti quintet February 8, 19-9. The Quakers lost the city championship to the Central quintet, 25-20, in a hard-fought battle at the Vocational School fieldhouse, February 12. Eastern came out with a rush, fighting the Big Reds from the start but the championship five from the west side succeeded in holding them. A 25-18 win over Jackson, February 15, elevated the Quakers into sole possession of second place in the Five-A league. Every member of the regular array had a hand in the scoring. The Purple of Ann Arbor was fown at half mast February 22, after being downed by a flashing quintet of Quakers who came from behind to register a 23-17 victory in the last scheduled game of the season. With second place in the Five-A league to their credit, the Quaker five entered the state tournament. A capacity crowd saw the domination of the Blue and Gold by Central, 24-14, after a mighty struggle. Bob Morris and "Blackie" Abrahams were the leading lights in Central's fine display. Lyle Sherman showed himself to be the Quaker leader in every way. Tournament competition being closed to Eastern by this overthrow, the Easternites retired to gather strength and skill for next season.

Assistant Coach Burnham

RESERVE BASKETBALL

With the exceptional record of nine games won and one lost as ample proof of the excellent work of Coach Burnham and the fine spirit of the squad, the varsity team is assured of some fine material from the ranks of the reserves.

Second Row: Kludt, Holstein, Kaiser, Coach Burnham, Athletic Director Wheeler, Robinson,

First Row: Chapman, Munroe, Kellogg, Towsley, Coach Graff, Wendorf, Osborn, Knapp

TENNIS

With only two veteran racquet wielders from the previous season, Eastern opened the 1934 season in championship style, handing out a 6-3 defeat to the veteran Owosso team and a 7-0 setback to Hastings during the same week.

In a meet at Flint Northern, which was harder fought than the score indicated, Eastern triumphed, 5-2. The next week saw a dual meet with a powerful East Lansing team, that won three of the five singles matches and forced the Quaker men to come from behind to tally a 4-3 victory. The following week, the Quaker aggregation routed a formidable Central team 4-3 to collect the fifth city championship in six years. This meet again saw the Blue and Gold netters compelled to take both doubles matches to win. In successive meets, Eastern's net team rather handily trounced Battle Creek, Jackson, and Ann Arbor by the identical score of 5-2, to take its third Five-A league championship in four years and gain a leg on a second trophy. Eastern's entrance into the regional tournament held at Michigan State Normal College in Ypsilanti, May 26, proved very successful, the Quakers taking their sixth consecutive team championship. In the State tournament, Krause reached the semi-finals and Kirchen and Whalen reached the doubles finals before being eliminated. The point summary for the tournament showed the Quakers to be in a tie for the state championship and the possessor of a beautiful team trophy as well as individual medals for the players. Major gold letters, signifying State Champions, were awarded Krause, Captain Kwast, Whalen, Kirchen, and Gutzki.

Second Row: Coach Fox, Sirhal, Kirchen, Krause, Whalen, Kaley, Ives

BASEBALL

After leaving baseball out of the sports picture at Eastern for one season, the athletic department decided again to issue a call for players. Coach Graff had a difficult job selecting varsity material from the host of candidates assembled at the first practice. The chief reason for renewing activities in this field of sport was the hope that baseball would take its place in the Five-A league calendar. Booking a five team schedule, the Quakers broke even on the first season's play in this new field, dropping two games each to the strong Battle Creek and State Frosh teams while downing both Howell and Charlotte twice. Several boys, including "Red" Roe, Chet Smith, Jenks, Byelick, Lyle Sherman, Kolberg, Padgett, Maliskey, Ballard, Alton, Stein, and Campion turned in creditable performances. It is hoped that the sport has gained sufficient favor to continue in coming years.

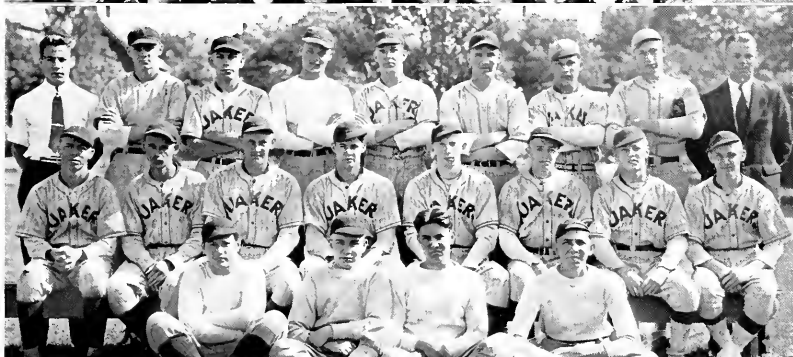

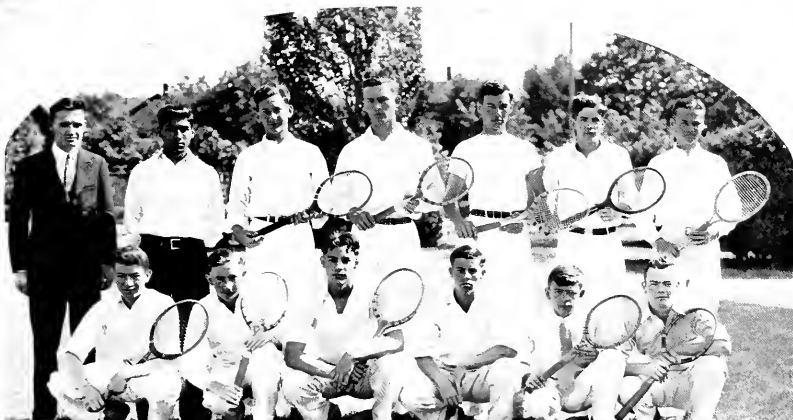

Third Row: Mgr. Waskow, Fox, Ballard, Ball, Maliskey, Smith, Wilcox, Kaulitz, Coach Graff
First Row: Shippey, Campion, Pease, Beauchamp

GOLF

Golf, although a comparatively new sport in Eastern's program, is becoming increasingly popular. Starting the season, April 21, by trouncing Central, the Blue and Gold mashie wielders next defeated East Lansing on April 24, Howell on April 28, and Battle Creek on May 7.

In the second round the matches with East Lansing and Central were repetitions of the previous encounters. The Easternites met their strongest opposition, May 12, in the form of an aggressive team from Ann Arbor. Coach Bovard's golfers were compelled to be content with a tie score. An already successful season was topped off by winning the Five-A and Regional meets. This feat gave Eastern its first two golf trophies. Walker, Hein, and Cushion turned in the best all-season performances for the team.

CROSS COUNTRY

With only one letter man back, around whom to build a cross country team, Coach Winston labored mightily to whip his boys into shape and bring them up to championship specifications for the 1934 season. Beginning a tough schedule in fine shape, Eastern won handily over Central, 21-34, in the first dual meet, Wolfe of Eastern coming in first with a time of 10:29. At Kalamazoo, October 13, Eastern was nosed out 28-27, Gaudard, Eastern's plucky little runner, coming in a close second to Niles of Kalamazoo. Jackson's well-balanced team won the Five-A championship, scoring 31 points with Eastern second having 48. Gaudard again exhibited the best form among the Blue and Gold runners, with Bassler a close second. To complete the schedule the Vikings again defeated Eastern, November 3, 64-65, at Ypsilanti, taking the state title by another one of those one-point margins.

Second Row: Ackles, Fenn, Hinman, DeFay, Adsit, Levandowski, Coach Winston

First Row: Gaudard, Baldwin, Bassler, Elliot, Mills, Wolfe

TRACK

Because of a lack of meets, Coach Winston's harriers failed to attract appreciable attention although they worked hard and showed fine spirit in every meet of the season. The Inter-class meet, which is an annual event, was won handily by the 11-A's. The nearest competition was turned in by the Senior A's. Battle Creek was next engaged. The Quakers easily triumphed with a 60 1/3-43 2/3 score. In the meet with Central, the Reds outperformed the Easternites 67-37. The Five-A competition was rather disastrous, the Blue and Gold ending in fifth place, being saved from the cellar by the Battle Creek team. Every boy on the team gave a good account of himself and some material was developed that will be heard from next season.

Third Row: Coach Winston, Bozak, Haussman, Gallager, Mgr. Cummings, Mgr. DeFay, Allen, Wade, Hazelton, Coach Burnham

Second Row: Myers, Madison, Lyle, Geovanes, Fenn, Elliot, Pearson, Delp

SWIMMING

Coach Winston's mermen started the 1934-35 season with a splash; in a meet with the alumni, the grads were drowned 42-32. Dropping a dual meet with Battle Creek, 27-48, the Quakers rallied with a signal victory over the ancient foe, Central, defeating the Reds 40-33 for the first time since 1928. In a dual meet with Ann Arbor, the Easternites submitted to a scant 36 1/2-38 1/2 defeat, putting up a game fight before allowing the Purple banner to be raised. Atoning for this nick in their record, the natators sank Pontiac 43-32 and then struck a low spot in the season, dropping meets to Ypsilanti, State Frosh. and Jackson. To wind up the dual swims, Central was again tamed, 41-31. In the Five-A league meet, the Quaker swimmers placed two second places and three fourths to their credit. Arnold Reeves, a senior, and "Ike" Stange, a junior, deserve much credit as consistent winners in their events. Stange made a record of taking first in the 220 yard swim in all dual meet competition.

Third Row: Burhans, Thomas, Stange, Pierce, Cwiek, Sykes, Whipple, Starbuck, Mgr. Polihonki

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

To furnish diversion during the noon hour and to give an outlet to the athletic ability of the classes, intramural games are held in the gym under R. A. Winston's direction.

These sports which include basketball, volleyball, indoor, and swimming, furnish competition for both boys and girls. Although anyone may try out for these sports, the final team selections are made by the athletic managers of each class. A schedule of five games is played by each class, the various teams being eliminated until the final champion is found. Intramural managers, who referee and supervise the games, are selected on the basis of their previous athletic record, two boys and two girls comprising the final selection.

Many interesting and hard-fought games are played, and recreation is furnished to a large number of students by this competition.

G. A. A.

All the girls of the gym classes are members of the Girls' Athletic Association. Every semester the organization sponsors a party in which the new members are initiated and the names of the all-around squad, the girl who wins the pin and the one who is awarded the silver loving cup are announced. Individual points are earned by the girls who engaged in sports outside of school including tennis, ping-pong, skating, and hiking. At the close of each semester the squad which has acquired the most points receives an award of recognition, and the girl who earns the greatest number of individual points receives a special award.

Miss Kalchthaler, the director of physical education for girls, presents the silver loving cup to the squad leader who meets the requirements of promptness, leadership, and ability to obey directions and secure the best results from her squad.

Spare Time . . .

The girls' gym class does a little daily exercise to keep the scales balanced—The girls participate in a little gossip, the bane of their existence—School's out, school's out . . . — Their favorite sport is eating lunch in the cafeteria. Everyone participates—"Interesting" laboratory experiments in physics take up a lot of their spare time after school—Also a laboratory experiment in Physics 2. Roger seems to be throwing a little light on the subject—"And further-more . . .", says Elton Bopp emphatically in Public Speaking class—It's very hard to tell what he'll do next. He seems sort of "crooked" at present.

Around Eastern

Hold that note says Music Director McIntire to the Boys' Band. Note the large audience — Ouch! you're on my foot is the general cry at the Hour Dance held every two weeks in the gymnasium — John Delany seems to be practicing oratory on the stairs. Maybe he'll be another Demosthenes. — They seem to be quite a social group for the library, but then, it's the eighth hour — Not the chief cooks and bottle washers, but just the bottle washers doing kitchen duty — Waiting expectantly. For whom, you may ask. Well it's hard to tell — Watch out, Bruce, you'll cut your finger — Unbalanced. I mean the scales, Harold.

SENIOR B PLAY—FALL

"The Lion and the Mouse," by Charles Klein, is the story of a young girl's battle with an American money-king. The plot is founded on an attempted impeachment of a Federal judge before the United States Senate.

Upon Shirley Rossmore's return from Europe she was informed that her family was no longer wealthy and that John Burkett Ryder who was responsible for it had had Judge Rossmore removed from the Supreme Court bench. To secure some important papers that would free her father from guilt, Shirley posed as an author in the Ryder home preparing to write a biography of Mr. Ryder. The plot centers around Shirley's cleverness in securing these documents.

SENIOR B PLAY—SPRING

A most interesting situation was depicted in the 1935 Senior B play, "Once There Was a Princess," by Juliet Wilbor Tompkins. Ellen, the princess who had married an Italian prince, returned home, unrecognized, to find the villagers in excited preparation for the return of the fashionable princess. She was mistaken for the seamstress and immediately set to work. As the appointed time neared, the situation became more tense and Ellen, to save the townspeople from grave disappointment, contrived an excuse to leave town. Later she returned in all the glory and splendor that befits a royal princess.

Style!...and everything else...

CERTAINLY is a beautiful car—no question about that. So smartly and smoothly streamlined, thousands are calling it "the best-looking new model of the year." And it's a big car, too—longer and larger than last year, roomier in every respect. But Oldsmobile's new bigness and new beauty are only the beginning! This car "has everything"—every fine-car feature, every proved advancement of modern motoring: Solid-Steel "Turret-Top" Bodies by Fisher. Knee-Action Wheels with Ride Stabilizer, Super-Hydraulic Brakes, Center-Control Steering, All-Silent Syncro-Mesh Shifting. And if there's anything else you have in mind, you can rest assured that Oldsmobile has it for you—even a price right down where you want it, definitely in the low-price field!

Sizes $675 and up... Eights $860 and up, list prices at Lansing, subject to change without notice. Bumpers with guards, spare tire, and rear spring covers built into all cars at the factory at extra cost. Convenient G. M. A. C. time payment plan. The car illustrated is the Six-Cylinder Touring Sedan, $820 list.

IT PAYS TO ATTEND A GOOD SCHOOL

Choose a vocation in which opportunities are limited only by individual ability.

Demand College-Level training—business, as well as other professions, expects it of you. The demand for untrained and half-trained help is small—the call for better-trained office assistants is greater than the supply.
